Introduction

The Author

For a number of years, my ambition has been to trace my ancestors to the one who came from Germany. I knew it must have been in the Early Colonial period. When publishing "Father and Son," a life-sketch of my father, Rev. Dr. Henry Ziegler, and of myself, I could not say that my father descended from a certain Ziegler who came across at a definite time. This, therefore, was my problem.

Collecting material for our Family Tree began, in a leisurely manner, more than thirty years ago. The serious effort, however, was started about two years ago. Plans were completed the past summer for an extended visit to Pennsylvania, in order to form the acquaintance of our numerous relatives, and to visit the places where great grandfather, Peter Ziegler, and my father lived.

A Ziegler family reunion was held in Hasson Park, Oil City, Pennsylvania, August 26, 1933, with more than two hundred present. A Peter Ziegler Association was effected, Captain Harley Jacob Ziegler of Franklin being elected President; E. Willard Ziegler of Oil City, Vice President; Miss Nora Bell Ziegler of Oil City, Secretary-Treasurer. The Association unanimously agreed to have the "Tree" published, the writer being the compiler.

Subsequently, I visited Center, Clinton, Huntingdon, Blair, Snyder, Perry, York and Lebanon counties, Pennsylvania, also Baltimore, Maryland. From the York County Historical Society I received a voluminous transcript of all the Ziegler records available in the county. This has been invaluable. It points the way to our great ancestor, Peter Ziegler's grand-father, Nicholas Ziegler, who landed in Philadelphia, September 16, 1738.

Ziegler Family Tree

In Germany

The Ziegler name originated in Germany. Ziegler means "tile;" a Ziegler is a tiler, a manufacturer of or dealer in tile and tile kilns. The name, Ziegler, therefore, is of commercial origin.

A principal branch of the family in Germany is organized as the Ziegler Familien Verein. Mr. Otto Ziegler of Dresden is president. They had their origin in Langensalza in Thuringia, where some of the direct descendants still live.

In 1928 there was completed a Ziegler Chronic, that contains more than 500 related families, and dates back to 1378. The Ziegler escutcheon displays a Golden Griffin on a blue field, and it can be seen on the sarcophagus of Rev. Doctor Eobanus Ziegler, a cotemporary of Martin Luther, and who is buried in the cathedral at Erfurt. It is interesting to note, also, that Luther's mother was Margarethe Ziegler.

In America

The commercial origin of the Ziegler name accounts largely for the numerous family groups in America, having no immediate connection one with another.

The first United States Census, of 1790, enumerates 294 Zieglers, 55 of whom were heads of families distributed as follows: Massachusetts, 1; Pennsylvania, 41; Maryland, 5; Virginia, 1; South Carolina, 7. The average size of family was 6.3. The name was variously spelled: Ziegler, Zeagler, Zeggeler, Zegler, Zeiger, Zeigler, Zigler.

Several prominent groups are included in this list of 55 families and Michael Ziegler, generally referred to as the Ziegler pioneer in Pennsylvania, was naturalized in Philadelphia in 1730. He came to America before 1717. He was born about 1680. With two other brothers, he settled in Montgomery County forming the town of Zieglerville. The original farm has remained in the Zieglar family until recently.

Christ Lutheran Church of York, Pennsylvania, the first Lutheran church in York County, was organized in 1733. In the list of 24 heads of families appear the names of Philip, John George and Jacob Ziegler. It is likely that these three were brothers. John George and Philip came over in 1727.

NICHOLAS ZIEGLER came over in the QUEEN ELIZABETH on September 16, 1738. NICKLAS ZEGLAR arrived on the EDINBURG, September 16, 1751. All the evidence points to NICHOLAS as our GREAT ANCESTOR. He lived and died in Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania. It is likely that John George, Philip, Jacob and NICHOLAS were closely related.

Not less than a score of Zieglers from York County are listed as serving in the Revolutionary War. Among them are Jacob, Nicholas, Michael, and Peter. The services of Major David Zieglar, not of York County, are well known. He was born in Germany in 1748, and served with Washington in 1777-78. Later he became the first mayor of Cincinnati.

In the Boundary Dispute between Pennsylvania and Maryland in which Marylanders attempted to preempt land along the Susquehanna river almost to York, a group of settlers, including Jacob Seglar, Jacob Seglar, Jr., and Philip Seglar, becoming convinced that the territory rightly belonged to Pennsylvania, joined with others in issuing a protest to Governor Oglevie of Maryland, in which they say in part: "We therefore . . . do resolve to return to our duty and live under the laws and Government of Pennsylvania, in which Province we believe ourselves seated"

"Signed with our own hands this eleventh day of August Anno Domini 1736."

On October 21, 1736, Gov. Oglevie issued a warrent for the arrest of these parties—"for contriving signing and publishing a seditious paper and writing against his Lordship and his government."

The real historic justification for this declaration by the Seglars and others, is the assurance of Thomas Penn, given about this time, that he would issue patents to persons who had settled by his permission on lands in Lancaster county (now, York,) on the west side of the Susquehanna river, in a tract of about 70,000 acres, surveyed in 1722, "commonly called the Manor of Springetsbury, so soon as the separate tracts could be surveyed." The ten years delay in the issuing of such patents was caused by "the claim made to said lands by the Indians of the Five Nations, which claim the said Indians have now effectually released to us."

Rupps Thirty Thousand Names, a list of those landing in Philadelphia in Colonial times, includes the names of numerous Zieglers arriving at many different times. What the relation of many of these groups to one another is, and what their relation to the parent stems in the districts from which they came, is certainly problematical. They were Catholics, Protestants, Jews and 7 Mennonites, coming principally from Germany, France and Switzerland. Today the Ziegler family is well nigh innumerable, and is scattered throughout the States from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

PETER ZIEGLER GENEALOGY

NICHOLAS ZIEGLER, who lived and died in Codorus Township, York county, Pennsylvania, is accredited by the York County Historical Society as being our great ancestor. He was born about 1710. He arrived on the Queen Elizabeth, September 16, 1738. The name frequently appears in the York County annals. His wife's name was Catharine. She is supposed to have been the daughter of John George and Catharine Sohn. This has not been verified—it is probable that it is not correct. His will was probated June 3—July 25, 1791. The children were: Elizabeth, married Adam Fissel; Catharine, married John Henich; Jacob (deceased); Michael, oldest son; Nicholas.

MICHAEL ZIEGLER of Codorus Township, oldest son of Nicholas and Catharine Ziegler. His wife's name was Catharina. The will was probated Sept. 23—Oct. 22, 1814. The children were: Peter, Jacob, Elizabeth, John, Philip, Catharina, George, Michael, Nicholas, Susanna, Rachel. "Peter to have my blacksmith shop." The name Michael also appears frequently in the York county annals.

There may be some question as to which Nicholas is our ancestor, the one we have selected, or the Nicklas Zeglar who came across in 1751. The evidence seems to point to the former.

PETER ZIEGLER HISTORY

PETER ZIEGLER of York County, Pennsylvania, the subject of this sketch, and our ancestor, is reputed to be the son of Michael and grand son of

ZIEGLER FAMILY TREE

Nicholas Ziegler, both of Codorus Township. He was born about 1760, presumably in York county. His wife is supposed to have been a Dawson. They had five children; I. Elizabeth; II. Jacob; III. Peter; IV. George; V. Michael—the first three in York county. About 1795 they removed to Baltimore county, Maryland, where Mrs. Ziegler died about 1802.

Mr. Ziegler was married again to Rebecca Roates, (Margaret Ann Rhoads). She was born in 1776, died in 1869 and is buried in the German Reformed cemetery at Jacksonville, near Nittany, Center county, Pennsylvania. They had six children: VI. Catharine; VII. Susan; VIII. John; IX. Daniel; X. Kesiah; XI. Julia Ann.

About 1808 the family removed from Baltimore county, Md., to Center Co., Pennsylvania, remaining about a year at Millheim, Penns Valley. In 1810 and during the war of 1812, Peter Ziegler conducted a hotel at Earleytown, about a mile west of Old Fort, and near the Ziegler home farm. It is here in all probability that several of his children were born. The farm was occupied in succession by his sons, Jacob and Michael, and several of their children were also born here. The farm is now owned by Mrs. Calvin R. Neff, (Mary Elizabeth Ziegler) a grand daughter of Michael Ziegler, and great granddaughter of Peter Ziegler.

Later, Peter Ziegler removed to Abdera, and from there to Flemington, Clinton county, where he died April 14, 1819 or 1820. He was buried in the now abandoned Presbyterian cemetery near Lock Haven. No trace of the grave remains, the grave-stones having been carted away.

Much of the history of Peter Ziegler and of his eleven children is contained in a letter written to me dated Jan. 15, 1900, from Henry Ziegler, son of Michael, and written by his son Franklin P. Ziegler, who now lives at State College, Pennsylvania. Uncle Henry got this information from the Peter Ziegler German Bible that passed through the flood of 1889. He received the Bible from John Keith, the husband of Elizabeth Ziegler Keith, oldest daughter of Peter Ziegler; and he in turn gave it to his aunt, Mrs. Julia Ann Ziegler Hare, widow of James Hare and youngest daughter of Peter Ziegler. She was living at the time (about 1870). with her daughter, Mrs. Josh Reish, who lived on a farm at Flemington Bridge, and where the Bible passed through the flood. Its last custodian was Miss Daisy E. Reish, daughter of Josh and Susan Reish, at Mill Hall, Pennsylvania. While in her keeping, the Bible, together with other valuable family papers, was destroyed by fire. These Bible records have since been compared with and verified by individual family records and traditions, and are ascertained to be in the main correct.

THE PETER ZIEGLER FAMILY

I. ELIZABETH ZIEGLER, eldest daughter of Peter Ziegler, was born in York county, Pennsylvania, November 1, 1788. Her sponsors at her baptism were Michael and his sister Elizabeth Ziegler, presumably her father's father and Aunt. She was married to John Keith.

ZIEGLER FAMILY TREE

WILLIAM KEITH, deputy Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, May 1717—June 1726, had much to do with the Boundary Dispute between Pennsylvania and Maryland. Later, as already noted, several of the Zieglers were involved in the same dispute. The final settlement came in the form of the Mason and Dixon Line, in 1763—1767.

John and Elizabeth Ziegler Keith settled in the wilds of Huntingdon county, about twenty miles south east of the town of Huntingdon. Some of the family still live at Robisonia. They had eight children: A. Julia Ann; B. Sophia; C. Susan; D. Charity; E. Sarah; F. William; G. John; H. Christina.

A. Julia Ann married Christ Miller. Children: Henry, George, Mary. They settled in Indiana. B. Sophia married John Hazzard. Children: Simon, William, Sarah, Julia Ann. C. Susan married Samuel Sailor. Children: Rachel, Ann, Eliza, Jane, Mary, William. D. Charity married John Shoop. Children: Elizabeth, Sarah, Emaline, Lauretta, Alice, George, William, Allen, Simpson. E. Sarah married Jesse Smith. Children: Elizabeth and Hanna. F. William Keith married Sarah Ann Parks. Children (1). Andrew, who was killed in the Civil War in 1863 at Charles City; (2). George married Elizabeth Curfman. Children: Sadie, Jennie, Etta, Emma, Martha, Christina, John Calvin, Andrew Myers, Frank; 3. Hoy; 4. Sophie Elizabeth; 5. Christina.

R. B. Keith, the son of Andrew Myers Keith, and great, great grand son of John and Elizabeth Ziegler Keith, is a successful merchant at Orbisonia, through whom much of this information was received.

G. John; H. Christina, married William Crotsley. Children: Jane, Martha, Ellen, Susan, John, Wesley, Leonard.

II. JACOB ZIEGLER, my grand father, the oldest son of Peter Ziegler, born Dec. 5, 1791, in York county, Pennsylvania. He married Catharine Leshner, October 15, 1815. Mrs. Ziegler was born September 10, 1798. They lived for a time at the Ziegler homestead, near Earleytown, west of Old Fort. From 1826 to 1828 Jacob Blacksmithed in Sinking Valley, (Pleasant Valley), near the Pleasant Valley Lutheran church; from 1828 to 1830 near Petersburg, at Neffs Mills. From there they removed to Maple Shade, Cranberry Township, Venango county, in 1830. Jacob Ziegler died May 4, 1868. Mrs. Ziegler died Jan. 9, 1875. They are buried in the church yard of the Lutheran church that stood on the corner of grand father's farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler landed in Venango county with one horse, a cow, his blacksmith tools, and about fifty dollars. They settled on 150 acres of timber and brush land.

Catharine Leshner Ziegler is a descendent of Col. John Leshner, who with his father, Nicholas Leshere, came to Oley Valley, Berks county, Pa., as early as 1726. They were French Huguenot refugees. Mrs. Ziegler's mother was a Minnich, she was descended from Baron Munch of France, who, because of his conversion to Protestantism, "during the reign of Louis XIV, was stripped of his possessions, his chateau burned, and he himself killed." His kinsmen in 1685 fled to Germany.

Simon Munch and his brother, Peter, descendents of Baron Munch, came to Oley Valley in 1736. Simon's son, Christopher, of Bernville, had twelve children. His daughter, Catharina, married George Leshner, about 1797. As near as has been ascertained, these are the parents of Catharine

Leshner Ziegler. If this is correct, then Jonathan Miles Leshner, who lives on his farm near Franklin, Pa., and who has been blind for many years, and upon whom I called, would seem to be a son of my grand mother's brother, and my father's first cousin.

Jacob and Catharine Ziegler had seven children: Henry; Mary; Susan; John Jacob; David; Catharine; Martin.

A. REV. HENRY ZIEGLER, D. D., my father, was born August 19, 1816, on the home farm west of Old Fort. From ten to fourteen years of age he worked at his father's blacksmith anvil. After removing to Venango county, in 1830, he assisted in grubbing out the farm, and worked for neighbors in Winter, splitting rails and flailing wheat, helping to support the family.

Immediately after his conversion, in 1834, he started a movement which resulted in the organizing of a Lutheran church, the entire family uniting with the same, services being held in his father's barn. The following year, 1835, he walked to Gettysburg, 250 miles, carrying all his possessions on his back, entering Pennsylvania College, in preparation for the Lutheran ministry. He graduated from the Seminary in 1843. He immediately became co-pastor with Father J. P. Shindel at Selinsgrove, (including Sunbury, Lewistown, Mifflinburg and Liverpool), introducing English preaching in the entire community.

From 1845 to 1850 he served as Missionary Superintendent for the newly organized Pittsburg Synod, in western Pennsylvania, travelling 11,000 miles on horseback, for a compensation of $1,500, including perquisites, for the five years. From 1850 to 1853 he served the Williamsport pastorate composed of six congregations. In 1852 he organized the First English Lutheran church of Williamsport. The original building still stands on Third Street. From 1855 to 1858 he served the Salona charge, which also was composed of six congregations. In several of the churches noted "revivals" were conducted. He was an ardent revivalist, at the same time insisting on catechetical instruction.

In 1858, he became the co-founder with Dr. Benjamin Kurtz of the Missionary Institute—Susquehanna University—at Selinsgrove. During his incumbency as theological teacher and general superintendent, he prepared one hundred men for the Lutheran ministry. Through these twenty three years, until 1881, he did the work of three men. During his years of retirement, he prepared the copy for an enlargement of Luthers Small Catechism, which was adopted by the church as its official text book. He died at Selinsgrove, November 26, 1898, triumphant in the Christian faith.

Henry Ziegler was united in marriage to Eliza App at Selinsgrove, May 19, 1844. Mrs. Ziegler is a daughter of John App, who was a prominent farmer in the Susquehanna Valley. It is due to his generous donations that the Missionary Institute was located at Selinsgrove.

THE APP FAMILY

Mathias App, the first of the family to locate in Penns Township, near Selinsgrove, appears to have come from Northampton county. "Already in 1766, "App's Mill" two miles north of (old) mouth of Penns Creek, is mentioned in Maclay's Surveys." It is likely that he is a son of Christian App, who landed in Philadelphia, Oct. 16, 1751. Mathias App was twice married. Children of the first marriage: Leonard; Polly; Catharine; Frederick, who settled at Muncey Station, Black Hole Valley; Elizabeth, who married Peter Born, (the father of Rev. Before Mr. Emerick's death, he is reported to have created a trusteeship, with Mr. Astor as trustee, to continue for 99 years, when the estate was to be distributed among the heirs of his two brothers, Christopher and Valentine Emerick. Several efforts have been made to bring about a settlement of the estate, but the Astors thus far have succeeded in resisting the claim.

IN PERRY COUNTY

JOHN SHARP ZIEGLER, son of Philip and Margaret Ziegler, was born in Harrington Township, York Conty, Pa., Jan. 19, 1813.

Philip Ziegler, father of John Sharp, was born about 1746; died in York Co., Aug. 4, 1829. Philip and Margaret had the following children: Juliana, Catharine, John Sharp, Sarah and Mary Ann; the last three being minors at the time of their father's death. Just how Philip Ziegler and our ancestor, Peter, are related is uncertain. It was thought that they were brothers; this is not likely, however. My father considered the Perry County branch as closely related to our line. It is probable that Philip is a son of Philip Ziegler, Sr., who was one of the twenty four original members of Christ Lutheran Church, York, Pa., in 1733. It is likely, too, that Nicholas Ziegler, Sr. is our common ancestor, and that he is a brother, also of the three Ziegler charter members of Christ church.

Philip Ziegler, Sr. was born about 1712. He came to America in 1727. He married Margaret Schmidt in Christ Church, York, Pa., Nov. 21, 1737. On Oct. 30, 1736, the Hon. Thomas Penn patented to Killian Smith 200 acres; to George Ziegler, 150 acres; to Jacob Ziegler, 150 acres, all in Manchester Township, in Springettsbury Manor.
